There is a great sensitiveness in this country to the out-spoken sympathies of England for the rebels. We had nothing better to expect. England has an old grudge toward us, and feels gratified at our misfortune, as some compensation for the mortification a past generation felt when they had to acknowledge the independence of this country.

The cooler philosophy of the ruling classes there runs in the same direction. This country is growing too great for the comparatively limited powers of Europe. What could be done with the Great Republic a generation or two hence, when it is dangerous now to any power or combination of powers in Europe? Let this country be divided and neither part is at all formidable. The whole power of each will be wasted on the other, and European intrigues will control the policy of both. All the calamities our fathers dreaded we shall, by our folly and party animosity, have brought upon ourselves. The rebels are anxious for European interference. They have based their hopes upon it. All the lessons of history re lost upon them. If a nation does interere in such cases, it is for its own interest and to accomplish its own purposes. It his life must be paid for its trouble in the power it gains over the party it aids. We shook off because we were united and far removed owe a debt of gratitude to the judgment and

CAMP UNION, NEAR GALLATIN, TENN.,) August 1st, 1862.

Editors Democrat-Gentlemen: The guerrilla warfare is working its ruin, as a cause produces its effect. A few days ago a good Union citizen of this county, who lived some eight miles from our camp, and who had been the means of arresting several aristocratic rebels, was deliberately and wantonly shot, while on the bed in his own humble home, in presence of his wife and children, and despite of their entreaties for

This heartless crime was attributed to a negro who was said, by others of his color, as soon as possible, but arrived too late to the influence of France after the revolution, to have been compelled to do it; but, in the judgment of secessionists, the dastardly deed from the old world; still it cost a struggle was such a brilliant achievement that the to keep out of the politics of Europe; and glory of it could not go for nothing. It is said they have advantage of us in that they change horses when necessity requires. Must we be too noble, too honest to do likewise, to stop their outrages?

This high-minded, humane policy-this ompassion for devils incarnate, in my umble judgment, is played out. It is surely high time to deal with them according to their folly; "they have already grown wise in their own conceit."

The rebellion of the rebellious is growwhy? Has it not been stimulated by treason among the ladies (let me call them so disappointment? Capture of Two Rebel Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. The steamer Wyandonk has brought up ight prisoners and five refugees from the neighborhood of the Rappahannock. The prisoners were taken during the past week, and were engaged in transporting goods across the Chesapeake and Rappahannock to the rebels. The Wyandonk a few days since overhauled the schooner Mail, of Brooklyn, for violating the blockade by trading with the inhabitants south of the Rappahannock. She was loaded with an assorted cargo, consisting of shoes, salt, &c., and had a large quantity of wheat on board. Martin Ragner, the captain, and H. C. Chamberlain, who appeared to be the business men, were taken on board the Wyandonk, and were brought up with the other passengers.

The schooner was towed up to the Yard one day last week by Acting Master's mate, Sheridan, of the Wyandonk, for a boats crew, from the Freeborn, captured off George's Island, with two canoes, which were conveying salt. They were accompanied by two men, who were making their way towards the land of Dixie. The two men were sent on board the Wyandonk, and brought up to the city.

The Reliance, a few days ago, captured a canoe on the Rappahannock, in the neighstraw goods. donk. They all reside in Middlesex county and were at one time in the Fifty-fifth Virginia regiment, but when that regiment left Fredericksburg for Richmond they deserted and returned to their homes, where they have been living for two months past. On Monday last, hearing that the rebel cavalry were to scour the country, all but one made their escape and came to our gunboats for protection.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War. HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA,) August 3, 1862. To Major General Halleck:

The reconnoitering column, under Gen. Crawford, crossed the Rapidan, and pushed forward to Crange Court House yesterday, and took possession of the town, which was occupied by two regiments of the enemy's cavalry, under General Robertson. Eleven of the enemy were killed and thirty-two taken priseners. Among the latter are one Major, two Captains and two Lieutenants. Our loss is two killed and 3 wounded. The enemy retired in such haste as to leave heir wounded in our hands. The railroad and telegraph line, between Orange Court House and Gordonsville, were destroyed.

I am again raising men for the war. Each accepted recruit and happiness throughout our land. Will will receive forty dollars in advance, upon General Order, No. 26.—There are 14,000 officers and soldiers absent from their duty with the various divisions of this army Some of them have gone off without any authority; others with the permission of officers not authorized to grant it. In general, not authorized to grant it. In general, sickness is given as the cause of absence, but in very many cases that cause has notoriously ceased to exist, and men remain when the insolent foe invade your State, while our brave and gallant brothers are battling for our glorious cause in the dis-tant South, let us not tamely submit to disduty. To correct this abuse it is ordered—
1. All officers and soldiers who are absent without direct authority from these fleadquarters, the period for which has not work-shop, and the counting-room, to come terest the Kentuckian holds sacred, are terest the Kentuckian holds sacred, imperiled. There is not a moment of time to be lost

Let every ablebodied man respond at once to the call of his State and Government, and let him who is physically disabled come forward with his means, to assist in crushing this monstor, and restoring the State and Govern-ment to their wonted peace and prosperity. The man who can remain unmoved amic such scenes as are now being enacted around him, and refuses to lend his aid to his country, is unworthy the name of a Kentuckian or an American citizen, and is not entitled to the enjoyment or protection of free government.
